

The Foundation exam is made available.

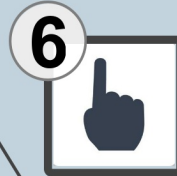

The PPP Certification Program officially launches in June 2016.

The Practitioner level exams are expected to be released in 2017. The program's material will be translated into Spanish. The Body of Knowledge will also undergo its first revision.

The Body of Knowledge is finalized having gone through several rounds of market consultation by over 80 reviewers from public and private companies, IFIs and academics.

PA Consulting becomes the first accredited training provider to deliver training for the Foundation exam.

WBG utilizes the Competitive Dialogue procurement method for the first time – resulting in APMG International being selected to deliver and implement the program.

The program's Consultative Committee selects 12 PPP experts to author the PPP Certification Program Body of Knowledge (PPP Guide).

2015

World Bank Group (WBG) conducts intensive market research – revealing strong interest and support for the program from both public and private sectors.

2014

The idea for the Public-Private Partnerships (PPP) Certification Program is conceptualized.
